Dear Messrs. Olswang,

TestDriven.Net (your client: Microsoft Corporation)

I refer to your letter dated 25 May 2007.

Within that letter you request withdrawal of the TestDriven.Net product which currently enables users of Microsoft's Visual Studio Express product added functionality.

As you will no doubt be aware, your letter (and this matter in general) raises a number of complicated legal considerations about which I am in the early stages of seeking independent legal advice. As such, a withdrawal of the TestDriven.Net product within the brief time period you have stipulated is not tenable.

I will however endeavour to contact you as soon as possible (either in person or via my lawyers) in order to discuss this matter further.

Yours sincerely,

Jamie Cansdale
